

May 2 at 7pm
in SS2098
aghstoronto.com

THINKING ARCHIVALLY WITH Professor Kirsten Weld

The humanities and social sciences may have undergone an archival turn in recent decades, but how much has that actually changed the way historians go about doing their work?

This lecture surveys both the interdisciplinary literature of the archival turn and historians' engagement with it, taking stock of how the rise in "archival thinking" has influenced the production of historical knowledge.